Attitude and grace

A chandelier with a sober and discreet elegance. Devoid of any concessions to decorations, hence capable of resonating both in classic and modern contexts. It combines strength and grace, with coexisting smooth and angular lines, just like Frida Kahlo, to whom it's dedicated. Frida is handcrafted with rigorously blown glass, a feature which grants it with imperfection and beauty.

Gisele dances.
 Gisele doesn't improvise her moves, she studies them, repeats them, perfects them.
 The main feature of the collection is, beside the preciousness of its components, the ease to create new shapes and dimensions.
 An innovative design, despite the appearances, which combines technology with aesthetic reasons: the entire structure is created in laser-cut steel and the lights are dimmable leds.

Light gems

The different models are obtained by arranging the rhombuses over ring-like elements of different diameters and remind of top level goldworking. The modules, set ajar, look like precious gems variously mounted just like bracelets, rings or parures. The choice of color nuances and metallic finishes is thought to always obtain combinations that glorify the preciousness of the artifact.

A linear metallic structure supports an exuberant game of intertwined ice sculptures: hand-made in Venice, these elements in blown glass, each one different from the other, find their strong point in their imperfection. Masculine and feminine. Minimalist and baroque. A cold light, full of reflections, well suited for contemporary and sophisticated locations.

Pearl drapery...

A drapery, some feathers, some precious gems: this is what comes to mind with Burlesque, a family of chandeliers with a strong personality. The protagonists here are the pearls with that multitude of precious strings that, just like a veil, lie down over the metallic structure of the lampshade, making it almost invisible. A collection capable of expressing a certain idea of femininity: mysterious, intense.

Crystal rain

Burlesque's sister in style, the Ontherocks lamps are both strong and romantic. The two models share between them that huge amount of crystals that, in a cascade fashion, cover almost entirely the structure, leaving only a glimpse of it to be seen. Kind of see-through. Here, though, the strings of crystals are exclusively transparent and enriched by irregular elements of different shapes – prisms, octagons, multifaceted spheres. A coup de theatre of great effect.

Sparkle of a newfound time

The inspiration behind Moulin Rouge almost happened by chance, with an unexpected finding in a dusty attic, this ignited the will to recreate a lamp that could recall old styles but that could also be dressed in a new, shiny cover. The metallic structure is wrapped with a continuous line of irregular pearls, singularly inserted by expert hands and enriched with some crystal nuggets handmade in Murano.

Magical berries

Nana has multiple versions... different forms and different coating techniques: a first one with a single string of transparent pearls that revolves around the metallic part and the lampshades as well; a second one decorated with magical berries: clear crystal spheres located in a natural and random way that amplify the reflections, like light grapes.

Strawberry fields

Looking upwards it seems like there are strawberry fields on the ceiling! Ophelia, which has been the company's symbol for years, has evolved into different models of itself. In the last model the strawberries have been substituted by prisms in clear crystal, while lampshades created with crystal lozenges have made their way in favor of the traditional fabric ones.

Never-ending cascade

One, ten, one hundred levels. There isn't an hypothetical limit, nor end, to the modular capacities of Eccentrica. Its main feature and strength is the completely assemblable nature of its modules, arrangeable until the desired height. Versatile in its uses, finishes and chromatic variations, Eccentrica distinguishes itself for another element: a cascade of crystals or chains that runs through it internally.
